What's All This Talk about Abolishing the Annual Review?

Sweetwater Event Center | 8335 Eagle Lake Drive | Evansville, IN 47715

$15.00 EHRA Members, $30.00 Guests, $5.00 EHRA Student Member

Agenda

11:00 am—11:30 am CST: Registration and Networking
11:30 am—12:00 pm CST: Meeting Announcements and Lunch
12:00 pm—1:00 pm CST: Program

Description

Have you or other leaders in your organization been questioning the annual performance review process? If so, you're not alone. Numerous books and articles on the topic have called into question the value of traditional performance review processes and approaches.

In this session, we'll look at the current thinking around the effectiveness of performance reviews and the arguments being made for abolishing them altogether. We'll discuss the pros and cons of making radical shifts and what to consider if you want to start down a "no-review" path. In the end it's about creating a performance-driven culture that ensures managers provide just-in-time and meaningful feedback that helps to drive organizational results.

Speakers

Megan Crowley, PHR, SHRM-CP, Associate Consultant at FlashPoint. With a background in industrial/organizational psychology, Megan Crowley offers FlashPoint's clients a unique perspective that's data drive and based on research. She investigates the root of organizational problems and the psychology behind employee behavior, applying her knowledge as she builds talent systems and processes and talent development programs for clients. Megan has provided support to clients in manufacturing, transportation, utilities, and other industries. Key projects have centered on building performance management programs, updating talent acquisition process, and developing competencies.

Megan earned a master's degree in industrial/organizational psychology from Purdue University and a bachelor's degree in business administration and psychology from Indiana Wesleyan University. She is a member of the Society of Industrial and Organization Psychology, a certified Professional in Human Resources (PHR), and a SHRM Certified Professional (SHRM-CP).

Nancy S. Alrichs, SPHR, SHRM-SCP, Consultant, Business Development for FlashPoint. Nancy Alrichs applies her extensive industry experience to help FlashPoint's clients identify their talent management needs. Nancy is a prolific author, and her works have appeared in print and online journals. Her most recent book is Igniting Gen B and Gen V: The New Ruls of Engagement for Boomers, Veterans and Other Long-Termers on the Job. She is also a frequent public speaker and has presented to more than 500 audiences, including management teams in a variety of industries. Before joining FlashPoint, Nancy served as vice president of talent management and diversity at the United Way of Central Indiana, helping it to become a Best Place to Work in Indiana. For more than 6 years she was president of EOC Strategies, a consulting firm specializing in intergenerational communication and management. She also opened the San Diego office of Right Management Consultants, a 300-office international management consulting firm.

Nancy has a master's degree and a bachelor's degree in anthropology, both from Purdue University. She is a board member of the Indiana Blood Center, board member of the Purdue University College of Liberal Arts Alumni Board, board adviser and past board member of the Society for Diversity, and a member of the Human Resource Professional Development Association (HRPDA), IndySHRM, the Kiwanis Club of Indianapolis, the Organization Development (OD) Network, and the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM). Description

One Step at a Time: A Young Marine's Story of Courage, Hope, and a New Life in the NFL follows Josh Bleill's journey from his enlistment then on to active duty in Fallujah, through two years of rehab, and ultimately to his job as the community spokesman for the Indianapolis Colts. Audience members will be inspired by his undying enthusiasm, infectious joy, and sense of humor. Everyone has had that "one bad day". Josh discovered that life begins when we embrace our bad days and keep going forward, one step at a time. HR Professionals can apply what's learned towards leading companies through challenges and change.

LEGAL UPDATE

Agencies Publish FAQs on Preventive Services Implementation

Provided by Todd Tillsworth of NFP Clippinger Financial Group

On May 11, 2015, the DOL, HHS and the Treasury (collectively, the Departments) published FAQs (FAQs about Affordable Care Act Implementation (Part XXVI)), which provide guidance on the coverage of preventive services. As background, PPACA requires non-grandfathered group health plans to provide preventive services without cost-sharing. The new FAQs specifically give regulatory guidance concerning breast cancer (BRCA) testing, FDA-approved contraceptives, sex-specific services, well-women care for dependents and colonoscopy coverage.

Under PPACA, one of the preventive services required to be provided without cost sharing is screening for women who have a family history of breast, ovarian and other cancers that predispose them to harmful mutations of the breast cancer susceptibility genes BCRA 1 or BCRA 2. However, there was some confusion as to whether or not the requirement to offer BCRA testing and genetic counseling extended to women who had prior non-BCRA-related breast cancer, but no family history or current symptoms. The FAQs clarify that genetic counseling and BCRA genetic testing must be provided with no cost sharing to women who have had prior non-BCRA cancers as long as they have not been diagnosed with BRCA-related cancer.

Another requirement under the preventive services mandate is for plans to provide coverage for contraception without cost sharing. However, the original FAQs on contraceptive coverage also provided that plans and issuers could use reasonable medical management techniques. In the new FAQs, the Departments clarify the rules on using medical management techniques as they apply to contraceptives. Specifically, plans must cover at least one form of contraception in each of the 18 FDA methods of contraception. See the FDA Birth Control Guide for a list of the 18 methods. The Departments explicitly addressed the ring and the patch, stating that a plan cannot limit contraceptives to the pill just because other methods are also hormonal contraceptives.

The FAQs further clarified that medical management techniques can be used within each method of contraception, such that plans may discourage the use of brand name contraceptives over generics or may encourage the use of one FDA-approved item over others. Additionally, plans that utilize medical management techniques must provide an exception process that is accessible, transparent, sufficiently expedient and not unduly burdensome on the participant or their service provider.

Due to the confusion surrounding whether or not plans had to cover at least one form of contraception in each method, the Departments will apply this guidance for plan years beginning on or after 60 days from the date the FAQs were issued (July 10, 2015).

In addition, the FAQs state that plans cannot limit sex-specific recommended preventive services based on an individual's sex assigned at birth or gender identity. For example, a mammogram or pap smear would have to be provided to a transgender man if his medical provider determines the procedures are appropriate.

The FAQs also state that the recommended women's preventive care services also apply to dependent children. So if the medical provider of a dependent child determines that well-women visits are age- and developmentally-appropriate for the dependent, then the plan would have to cover those services with no cost sharing.

Finally, the FAQs provide that the anesthesia used during colonoscopies is also to be provided without cost sharing.

LGBT Pride Month and Diversity
By Danyelle Granger

The month of June is observed as Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Pride Month and the last Sunday in June is Gay Pride Day. The month of June was chosen because it marked the 1969 Stonewall Inn Riots. The Stonewall Inn in the Greenwich Village area of New York City was a popular club and one of only a few clubs that welcomed openly gay people at that time. It was common for police to raid these establishments and force gay people out or even beat and arrest them. On this particular night, when police attempted to raid Stonewall, a large crowd convened to protest the mistreatment of gays and lesbians, riots broke out and lasted several days. Within months after this incident, gay activist organizations, including newspapers, began establishing themselves and promoting the rights of gays and lesbians across the U.S. The first Gay Pride marches took place in 1970 in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York to commemorate the anniversary of the riots.

Throughout the month of June, cities all over the world hold Gay Pride festivities. The term "pride" is used to promote a positive stance against discrimination and violence toward people who identify as LGBT, and encourages celebration and self-confidence, as opposed to feelings of shame.
